

Unrecognised short- & long-haired (XSH & XLH)

Breeding programme 27/10/2024

Other names

The unrecognised shorthair/longhair is used for a breed in development or a crossbreed used in a breeding programme. As a rule, a target breed or the breed from which this cat originates is always indicated. As soon as the cat is used in a breeding programme to improve an existing breed or develop a new breed, the breeding programmes established for the target breed must be followed.

Re-registration in the target breed is carried out in accordance with FIFe regulations.

General Breeding Advice

In accordance with those of the target breed.

Before using an unrecognised short- or long-haired cat in a breeding programme, it must be extensively tested for all common conditions to prevent new problems from being introduced into a breed. Use must always be approved in advance by Felis Belgica.
